“The Great Beauty”
made in Italy

Bella Italia has everything to surprise you like few other countries in the world: food, history, friendliness, priceless sea, exclusive locations or others less known, but all worth discovering.

An aerial photograph of a beautiful bay in Croatia during sunset. The sky is a vibrant orange and red, with the sun low on the horizon. The water is a mix of deep blue and turquoise, reflecting the warm light. Numerous sailboats are anchored in the bay, scattered across the water. Several small, lush green islands are visible, some with rocky shorelines. The overall scene is serene and picturesque, capturing the essence of a Mediterranean coastal paradise.

A woman with her back to the camera, wearing a wide-brimmed white straw hat and a bright blue, sleeveless, pleated dress. She is standing on a stone ledge, looking out over a picturesque Greek coastal town. The town features white-washed buildings, several small white domed structures (possibly chapels or windmills), and a sandy beach. The sea is a vibrant turquoise color, and a hilly landscape is visible in the background under a clear blue sky.

The Greece that steals your heart

Between history and civilization, cuisine with thousand flavors and over 6,000 islands scattered in a sea with myriad of colours. Greece, between the Ionian, Cyclades, Sporades and Aegean has always represented a destination that has everything to seduce.

An aerial photograph of a coastal town in Turkey. The town features numerous buildings with red-tiled roofs, nestled along the shoreline. A harbor area is visible with several boats docked. The water is a vibrant turquoise color, transitioning to a deeper blue further out. In the foreground, there are rocky islands and peninsulas covered in green vegetation. The background shows more land and distant mountains under a clear sky.

Türkiye, the modern Paradise

8,000 kilometres of coastline, hundreds of islands, beautiful nature, fascinating historic sites, and hospitable locals. That's the sailors' paradise called Türkiye

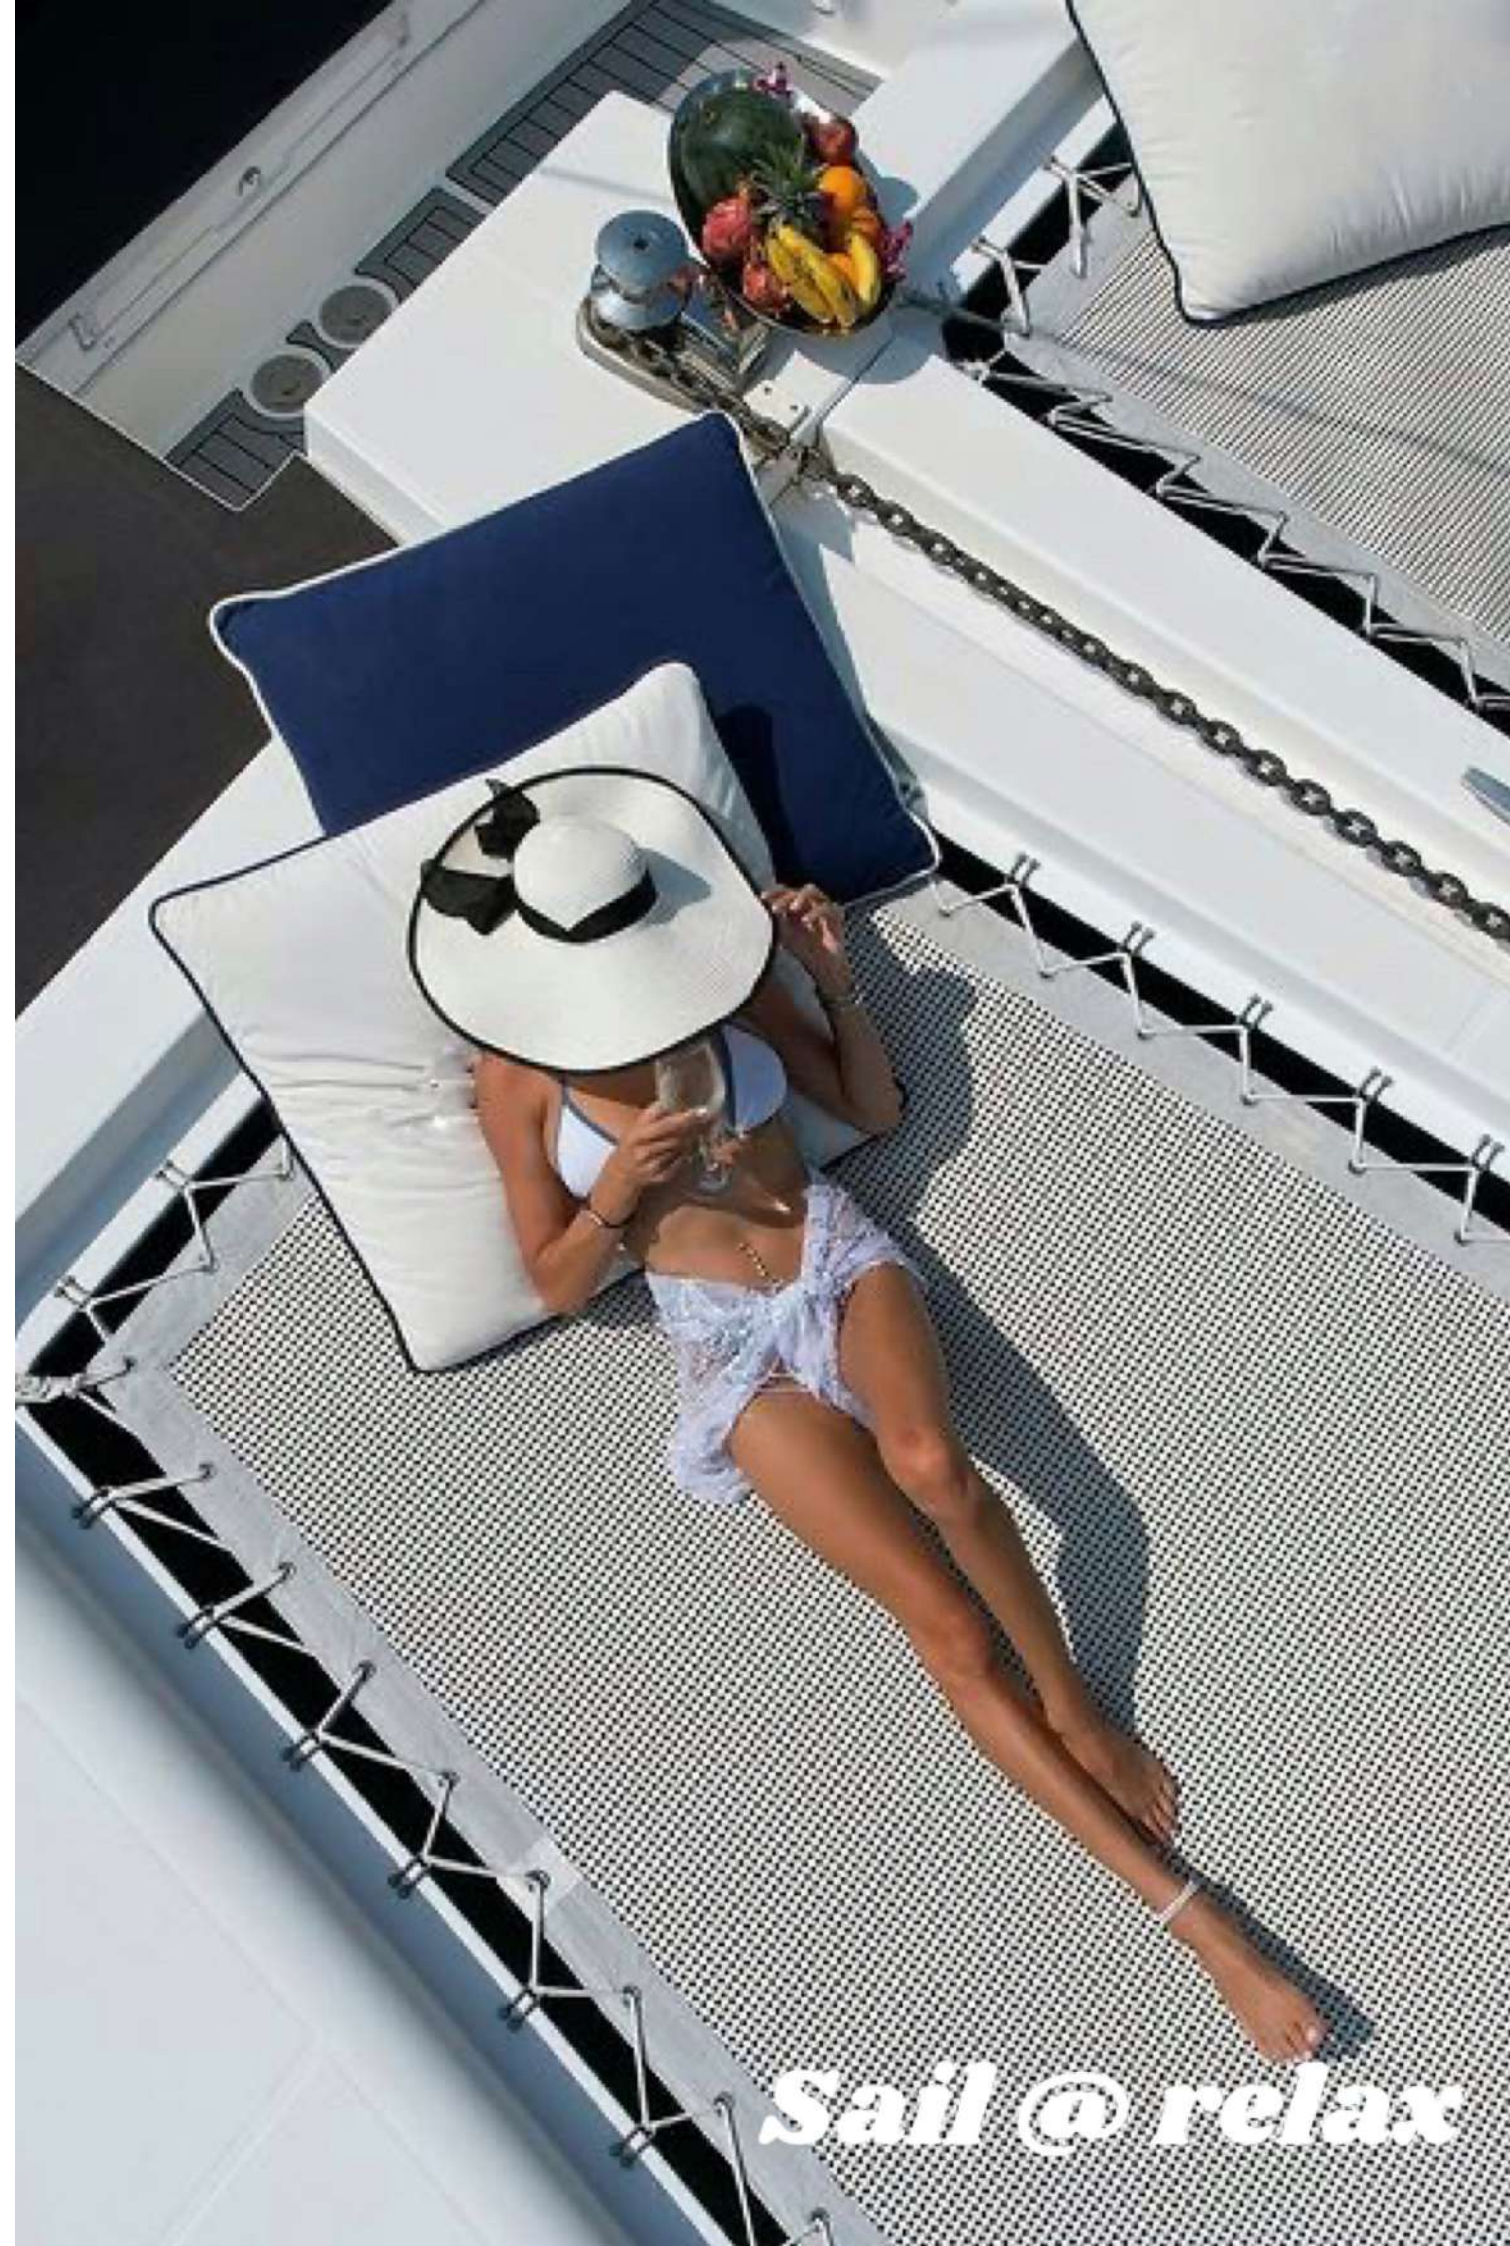

A scenic view of a tropical bay in Thailand. The water is a vibrant turquoise color. In the background, there are tall, steep limestone cliffs covered in lush green vegetation. A small sandy beach is visible at the base of the cliffs. Three sailboats are anchored in the water. The text "Amazing Thailand... sailing under sunshine" is overlaid on the image in a white, italicized font.
